What are you wearing On your feet this weather?

There is style in footwear as there is in hats. Each year the Granby Rubbers and Overshoes are modelled to fit all the fashionable shapes of boots. They are thin so as to prevent clumsy appearance and feeling and to make them so necessitates the use of the finest quality of rubber. While Granby Rubbers and Overshoes are up to date in Style, Fit and Finish, they retain their old enduring quality.

SUGGESTIONS FOR BEDROOMS.

The Pretty Idea of Each Room Having its Flower.

These are days when the labor of furnishing a house becomes an artistic pleasure, and the perfect harmonizing of carpets, wall papers, furniture and even bric-a-brac is by no means a difficult task. Housewives have gone through with various crazes, such as the color rooms, the nations rooms, etc., and now comes the pretty idea of flower rooms. As explained in the New York Tribune, each bedroom has its flower. The walls are covered with a paper on which is a design of the flower. The bedspread, which is made of a heavy cotton cloth, is in the French shape, is drawn up to cover the round bolster, and no pillows are used even when the bed is arranged for the night. The edge of the cloth is cut in large scallops finished with a deep buttonhole stitch in silk of the color of the flower, and this flower is also embroidered in some artistic manner upon the cover. A deep flounce of heavy lace falls from under the scalloped edge.

Furniture and bureau covers are embroidered in the same flower, and the towels that hang inside the white washstand have the monograms in the same shades. The bedclothes are of beautiful white, framed in white, are etched or soft water colors—sometimes these latter are clusters of the room's flower. In the guests' rooms even the writing tables boast exquisite china accessories that are decorated with the flower. Each room is called by the name of its flower—the "violet," "clover," "golden rod," "wild rose" or "chrysanthemum" room.

To carry out in detail the foregoing a somewhat large space is necessary, and there are many pleasant homes where less expensive decorations are desirable. It is surprising to see how attractive simple rooms can be made by the aid of flowered chesecloth, dale boxes and a little ingenuity. For the iron bedstead, painted white, a French cover can be made of the chesecloth, with a valance of the same material. A large box forms the dressing table. This is covered with chesecloth, a deep ruffle forming the front and sides, the top being plain. A strong board a few inches wide and about four feet high should be nailed in the center at the back of the box in an upright position, and to the top of this board may be fastened a small crossbar extending out over the dressing table. From the top of the board to the two back corners of the box the chesecloth to be draped so as to form a triangle and conceal the board. Another long piece of the cloth edged with lace on one side is thrown over the crossbar, falling below the sides of the table and forming a small canopy. A square mirror, its frame covered with folds of the chesecloth, should be hung diagonally on the board at the back.

Pine shelves made like a simple box case and painted white provide a place for the usual contents of bureau drawers and, before these are hung curtains of chesecloth. The washstand may consist of a white table, but it would be a mistake to drape this in any way with the cloth, as it would soon assume a bedraggled appearance if water were spilled upon it. White muslin curtains tied back with ribbon to match the flower on the chesecloth should hang at the windows. A rocking chair, three or four other chairs, a small writing table, a nest matting on the floor, and the walls simply papered or painted in tints that harmonize with the general coloring complete a room where any one with an easy conscience might delight to rest.

The Convenient Linen Bag.

When there is space for it, a wicker hamper with cover is the very best receptacle for soiled linen. Many housewives, however, give preference to bags for their purpose. So long as the bags are made of colored linen for working with white flax threads; others are of twill or drilling. The average bag is made square and arranged to draw up at the top with a string or tape. There are also more fanciful arrangements of this useful article, such as the one here reproduced from The Housewife.

CHOICE MEATS.

R. M. Cronk, Deseronto's oldest and most popular butcher, is to the fore with a display of Easter beef which cannot be duplicated in the Bay district. He has several carcasses of prime home raised beef which an English epicure could appreciate. In his exhibit are four spring lambs, three yearlings, six spring porkers raised by Tom McGurn and pronounced beauties. Mr. Cronk has a display full, equal, in fact surpassing that of former years.

EASTER BEEF.

E. S. Westmoreland, the Main street butcher, is making elaborate preparations for Easter. His display to-day and tomorrow should be visited by all citizens whether they intend to buy or not. His exhibition of prime beef is probably the best ever seen in Deseronto. He has purchased a number of first class cattle from the stables of the Rathbun Company. These animals have been well fed for several weeks. Mr. Westmoreland has to pay a round figure but he was determined that the city butchers should not carry off these prize animals. In addition to his superior beef, he offers veal, mutton, lamb, fresh pork, all of the very best quality. He feels confident that he can give satisfaction to his patrons as he has nothing but the very choicest of meats.

LAPNOT COMMITTED.

Brookville, March 31.—This forenoon, in the general hospital, Lapnot had his preliminary trial before Police Magistrate Deacon on the charge of shooting and killing Peter Moore, on Monday March 9th. Only four witnesses were called. The evidence was practically the same as given at the coroner's inquest proving that Moore had shot his death by being shot by Lapnot. After hearing the evidence he was formally committed for trial at the assizes. Lapnot looks well, and does not seem at all concerned over his position. He laughed and chatted with the guards and apparently was the happiest man in the room. He did not answer any questions and when the Magistrate asked him if he had anything to say he made no reply. He will be removed from the hospital to the goal this afternoon. Lapnot was not represented by counsel.

ORDER OF CHOSEN FRIENDS.

The ninth annual meeting of the Grand Council of the Canadian Order of Chosen Friends was held in Toronto last week. Three hundred and thirty delegates from all over the province were present. During the year the 2,700 approved applications were received, and 65 new councils organized, the total membership of the order at the year-end 11,369, composed of 8,636 males and 2,733 females; the net amount of insurances carried by the same is $14,400,250. There was collected during the year in the relief fund department $101,759.92; 65 deaths took place in the order on which were paid the sum of $73,500. The total amount paid out in death benefits since organization amounts to $250,000. The reserve fund of the Order has reached $100,000, of which $20,000 has been invested in Dominion Government securities. There were only five calls in the sick benefit department for the year. From the Grand Recorder's report it is seen that there are now 242 subordinate councils in the organization, with a membership of over 12,000. Since the beginning of the year there have been 14,000 calls for aid, and the prospects for the future of the society are very encouraging. The next annual meeting will be held at Hamilton.

Mr. Sims has vacancies for three or four lady or gentleman boarders. First class board and rooms in the healthiest part of the town at moderate rates.

SONS OF ENGLAND.

The supreme grand lodge of the Sons of England held its twenty-first annual convention at Peterboro with an attendance of 150 delegates. The reports of the officers show a prosperous condition of the order. There are 205 lodges in Canada and three in South Africa. The receipts last year were $78,000, and 200 new members were added. The cash balance in hand is $80,000; $17,100 was paid out in funeral benefits. In the last nine years $1,000,000 has been paid out in funeral benefits. There is insurance upon the lives of 2,400 members to the amount of $2,709,000. In the last year $100,000 were paid out in this department.

RUPTURE.

Mr. B. Lindman, of Toronto, manufacturer and proprietor of the celebrated Wilkinsons' Truss, will be at the Deseronto House in Deseronto on Monday the 13th of April, for purpose of fitting and repairing trusses or rupture. The excellence and simplicity of the Wilkinsons' Truss are well known, being most highly endorsed by those who wear them or having used them from the Atlantic to the Pacific as also by every physician and surgeon in Toronto, without exception. You have no doubt noticed the temporary relief, and the ease with which the rupture may be reduced and retained in position by the fingers; the action of the Wilkinsons' Truss is similar to that of the human hand, not only reducing but fully retaining the rupture, it is as simple as putting on a shoe. It is simple it is perfect. Mr. Lindman will be glad to see you, at the "Deseronto House" in Deseronto on Monday April. Success attends the Wilkinsons' Truss everywhere. Unfortunately there are so many more or less worthless trusses in the market that consumers of trusses have been led by many. But this is the age of progress and we can assure those requiring a proper truss that this is The Truss for self-reliance.

CHILBLAINS AND BUNIONS NO MORE.

Douglas & Co., Napanee, Ont.

Gentlemen,—Yours

has cured me of Chilblains. My case was so bad that every season they would freeze my toes. I could not wear even a slipper, and was compelled to stay in the house and hire men to do my work. Whenever I feel symptoms of their returning one application of this is necessary.

Napanee P. O.

TYENDINAGA RESERVE.

It has been the prophecy of old Indians that on Palm Sunday if the wind is blowing from the south it indicates a warm spring which no doubt will become a good sign of the abundant growth of everything in the way of vegetable.

John Amos Pratt, formerly of Deseronto, has moved on the place of the late David C. Maracle, and has become a sturdy yeoman.

The services will be held at usual in the lower Mohawk Church next Sunday by the Rev. J. H. Coleman.

It is with the unanimous consent of the board that the Rev. A. Grasset Smith has been appointed to the incumbency of Tyendinaga. He has a thorough knowledge of the nature of the work, as he has been a missionary to several tribes of Indians near the Thames.

Maracle has moved in the house lately vacated by John A. Pratt.

The season forebodes a busy one as concerns the different roads on the Reserve, the haulage of gravel has already begun.

Chief S. Loft and Wm. Pownall paid Kingston an official visit on Monday, and returned on Tuesday, the appointment of the Rev. A. Grasset Smith as Missionary to the Reserve.

ALL RUN DOWN.

This is the condition of thousands. Squander have their time of sleep, rest and finally of health. The mad pursuit of place, power and profit leaves them broken in spirit, weak in body, shattered in nerve. In the wily and cunning of it, their days are spent in desire, impotent and purposeless, for they have bankrupted health. Thousands have their mortal notes to the "Tired! Tired! You need aid! Your system requires a stuff upon which to lean, and your brain is fast losing its vigour. Health and strength are the alternatives from decay and death.

Coca, combined with Maline, affords, that stuff. It will give tone to the nervous system, strength to the shattered nerves, sleep to the weary eyes, rest to the tired brain. Maline with Coca Wine will build up the weak and give strength, vigor, and health to the weak and debilitated. Maline with Coca Wine is sold by all druggists.

UNFORTUNATE SEALERS.

St. John's, N.B., March 30.—The sailing steamer Labrador came in to-night with 1,000 sealers. The reports of the Negatives are 20,000; the Greenland, 6,650; the Walrus, 9,000, and the Kite 9,000. Ten ships are empty. The steamers Ranger and Walrus have been badly crushed. Although the latter has a fair catch, it is feared that this will be the worst season for many years. Not a hundred thousand seals have yet been reported as caught, as against 350,000 last year. The season is likewise unpropitious for disaster. Two vessels, the Wolfe and Windsor Lake, have been lost, and the Hope has been disabled. Two others were crushed off Newfoundland, and nearly foundered while trying to reach port.

SITUATION IN MATABELELAND.

Capetown, March 31.—Advices from Bulawayo report that isolated fighting with the Matabele continues, the British being at a great disadvantage in respect of the numbers. The dispatches say Major Graham and five other British have been killed in these encounters and several were wounded.

London, March 31.—Mr. Chamberlain, Secretary of State for the Colonies, read dispatches from Capetown, under the date of March 30, saying the rebellious Matabele were well armed and were marauding in the Matabeleland. Mr. Chamberlain read a dispatch bearing to-day's date, which said there were 60,000 persons in Bulawayo for the defence of the place, and that the supply of arms was deficient.

Capetown, March 31.—Capt. Nicholson, who is in command at Bulawayo pending the arrival of Sir Richard Edwards, has been appointed administrator of the police in Bechuanaland, Matabeleland and Mashonaland, has telegraphed to the government here under the date of March 30, that the whole Matabele country outside the radius of fifteen miles seems to be in a state of revolt. After giving various details of the situation, Capt. Nicholson adds: "I am afraid this is a big business, and that a strong force will be required to settle the Matabele district."

FROM THE SEAT OF WAR.

A Use for Him.

Hostess—Are you a musician, Mr. Muse?

Muse (who is dying to give an exhibition of his ability)—Well—er—yes. I think I can lay claim to some knowledge of music.

Hostess—I am delighted to know it. My daughter wishes to play, and I should be very glad if you would kindly turn the music for her.

A Famous Man.

Johnson—That man in the corner hasn't spoken a word this evening. Perhaps he's doing all the more thinking.

Jackson—Very likely. He tells me he finds it impossible to say word in company, but he is a clever man, nevertheless. He is an author.

Jackson—Of what, pray?
Johnson—Why, of that famous book, "Aids to Conversation."

Willing to Try.

Old Gent—So you want to marry my daughter, eh?

Prospective Sutor—Yes, sir.
Old Gent—Do you think that you can keep her in the same shape that I have?

Sutor—Well, from what I have seen of it in her bathing suit, opera gown and evening bloomers, I admit it's worth my while making the effort.

Good Practice.

"Jack," said the father, "are you going to enter for the sports at school this year?"

"Yes," answered the son, "I'm going to try for the mile race."

"All right. Here is a package I wish you to deliver to Watkins. It is just about a mile from here, so let me see how long it will take you."

DROPPED DEAD!

Suddenly Stricken Down by Heart Disease.

A sudden and sudden death occurred in a well-known office on one of the leading streets this morning.

Nearly every large city paper contains a notice of this death.

The cause of death was heart failure. It was very large, but it is only when they occur in general attention is drawn to them.

Excitation and fluttering of the heart are common complaints. With the heart itself there is nothing radically wrong. But the system is disordered, the kidneys and liver are out of order, and the stomach is not in condition to do its work properly. Between them all, they throw too much responsibility on the heart, and the latter is unable to stand the strain.

A box of Dr. Chase's Liver-Liver Pills at a cost of 25 cents will regulate the system, purify the blood and make a new person of every sickly man, woman or child.

Dr. Chase's Liver-Liver Pills may be had from any dealer or from the manufacturer, Edmondson, Burt & Co., Toronto. One pill a dose, one cent a dose.

Dr. Chase's Laxative and Turpentine is also sold. Largest bottle on the market, only 25 cents.

South American Nerve Drives Despair Away.

BECAUSE ALWAYS EFFECTIVE

An Unfailing Remedy for Indigestion and Nervous Troubles.

"The joys at which we never felt a wound." Well he may, but perhaps not long of the human race experience many cases in ill health and broken constitutions. Take the thousands who are to-day suffering from nervous troubles of various kinds. They are weary to death, but the uncertainty of their health is such that they can make no safe calculation of what will be the result of the great discovery—South American Nerve—come to the aid of every man and woman afflicted. No parallel can be drawn between it and any other medicine, for it is unlike all others. For nervousness or indigestion, which in many cases is an outgrowth of nervousness, it is unfailing and certain to cure. Strong, positive words there, but South American Nerve is worth them all.

A TYPOS RELEASE

FROM THE AWFUL SUFFERINGS OF RHEUMATISM.

THE CASE OF R. E. ROBBINS OF WILLOWDALE. A SUFFERER FROM RHEUMATISM. HIS CASE IS THE SUBJECT OF THE LATEST BEST SELLING BOOK BY DR. J. W. EGG. A PHYSICAL WORK.

The world today is both commercially and scientifically inclined toward system, and we live everything else is crushed systematically. Every newspaper has its staff of reporters to observe and collect the news of the day, or district. For some time past a reporter of the Willowdale Telegraph has been watching the development of a treatment for a serious case of rheumatism. One of the employees of that institution. About eighteen years ago, Mr. E. P. Robbins, while at work in the Telegraph printing office, was suddenly seized with sharp pains all over the body, accompanied by extreme swellings. He could not move, and a short distance from the office, with difficulty, and on the doctor being called he pronounced it inflammatory rheumatism. For several weeks he had laid in bed under the care of the best physician, and at the end of four months he was unable to resume his duties. During the next few weeks he was subject to frequent slight attacks, and finally, though a change of location might be beneficial. With this idea Mr. Robbins visited the different American cities, sometimes in good health and again in pain. He finally settled in New York. Here for about two years he followed his occupation with comparative little success, when he suffered a severe attack which left him, until a few months ago, a martyr to that terrible disease. Mr. Robbins recovered somewhat after weeks of illness and went back to the typewriter, but again and again he was laid up, working only about six days a month. Gradually he grew worse and at last, discouraged and at the Sisters Hospital. After spending many weary months within its walls he was discharged with the awful verdict "Incurable." More from a sense of duty than with hope he tried other hospitals in the city but with the same result, and resigned to his fate he left for his old home, where he arrived in February, 1895, a crippled, emaciated man, his former self, and was passed unrecognized by his former friends. Here in the house of his father, James W. Robbins, who had died in 1888, he finally settled in New York. More from a sense of duty than with hope he tried other hospitals in the city but with the same result, and resigned to his fate he left for his old home, where he arrived in February, 1895, a crippled, emaciated man, his former self, and was passed unrecognized by his former friends. Here in the house of his father, James W. Robbins, who had died in 1888, he finally settled in New York. Here for about two years he followed his occupation with comparative little success, when he suffered a severe attack which left him, until a few months ago, a martyr to that terrible disease. Mr. Robbins recovered somewhat after weeks of illness and went back to the typewriter, but again and again he was laid up, working only about six days a month. Gradually he grew worse and at last, discouraged and at the Sisters Hospital. After spending many weary months within its walls he was discharged with the awful verdict "Incurable." TUESDAY, APRIL 3, 1896.

Strange Feat of a Cab Horse.

A curious incident which occurred at about four o'clock yesterday morning in the rue d'Alsace is related in the Temps. This street is divided by two flights of steps.

A cabman was asleep inside his cab when the horse, tired of waiting, possibly, set off at a smart trot in the direction of the steps. The cabman awoke suddenly, opened the door and jumped out of the vehicle. He was just in time, for his horse had already reached the top of the steps.

The cabman was seriously hurt by his fall. When a policeman, who had seen the accident, got to the steps, he expected to find the cab smashed to pieces and the horse killed. But by something like a miracle there was no harm done. The horse and cab almost fell safely to the bottom of the steps without accident and was caught on the place de Strasbourg.

The cabman was taken to the Laribolere Hospital, but will be well again in a few days. If his sleep had been a little more sound and he had remained in the cab, he would not have been hurt at all. —European Edition of the Herald.

He Got It.

Hotel Clerk (who has noticed rice in Alkali) (to the hair)—Hum! the bridal chamber, I presume?
Alkali (drawing his gun)—Looky here, pard! I'm a cowboy all right, but I ain't asleep in no stable on no wedding night. Gimme th' best room in th' house, with nary a bride, saddle or cariat in it.—Judge.

Told Her Troubles.

The following conversation is reported to have taken place between a minister and a widow, both of Aberdeen.

The widow, who called upon the minister, seemed desirous of relieving her mind of something which oppressed her, at which the reverend gentleman, wishing to hurry matters, exclaimed:

"My good woman, you see I can be of no service to you till you tell me what it is that troubles you."

"Well, sir, I'm thinkin' o' gettin' married again."

"Oh, that is it! Let me see; that is pretty frequent, surely. How many husbands have you had?"

"Well, sir," she replied, in a tone less of sorrow than of bitterness, "this is the fourth. I'm sure there never was a woman so completely tormented w' a set o' deevil men as I've been, sir."

How He Opened.

Inspector, severely cross-questioning a rough-looking customer—What is your name?

"Oh, you know me quite well. I'm Perkin Prowlabout."

"And you mean to say that I know you?"

"Certainly, ever since I opened a goldsmith's shop."

The inspector stared at the man from head to foot: "With what capital did you open it?"

"Capital? I opened it with a jimmy!"

Extenuating Circumstances.

"The officer arrested you for being drunk," said his honor, severely; "very drunk indeed."

"Yes, your honor," replied the culprit, "but there were extenuating circumstances."

"What were they?"

"Why, your honor, you see, I was under the influence of liquor at the time."

All the Same.

Acquaintance (in the street car)—Hello, Burt! haven't seen you since you got your last look out. How are you, anyhow? What's in that paper?

Struggling Author—A roast.

Acquaintance—I don't mean the brown. I mean the paper you are reading.

Struggling Author (with evident reluctance)—I have a roast in that, too.

Childish Logic.

First Youngster—I've got a new baby brother, what come from Heaven last night.

Second Youngster—That's nothing. My little baby brother went to Heaven yesterday.

First Youngster (reflectively)—Pats, I bet it's the same kid.—Life.

The Bicycle Craze.

Gadabout—if the people of the viking age could have foreseen his age, what do you suppose they would have said about it?

Zounds—Well, I guess they would have called it the biking age.—New York Tribune.

HINDOO TRICKS.

THE OCCULT MYSTERIES OF THE BASKET TRICK LAID BARE.

Magie Without Mahatmas—Very Simple Methods Used to Produce the Marvels at Which Generations of Visitors to India Have Held Up Their Hands in Wonder.

The credit for the exposure of the occult art of India belongs to A. Edwin Hood, a nephew of Hon. Henry Hall, late American Consul to Bombay. Mr. Hood has lived many years in India, and speaks Hindustani as fluently as English. He devoted a great deal of time to studying the characters and performances of the fakirs.

He won their confidence. He induced a company of them to go with him on a voyage around the world, giving exhibitions of their magic. They had great success everywhere before crowned heads and heads of the fakirs.

But he is sick of the business. The fakirs became cantankerous and multilingual or three times. They are hard to manage outside of their own country.

Two rabbits were placed in a small cloth bag (1), loosely tied around and put on the floor. The small basket (2) was then placed before Nathoo, who put upon it his rakamas, or girdle made out of cloth and leather, and resembling a cross between a crocodile and a bootjack.

This little trick is very efficacious in Hindoo occultism, and should never be left out.

After putting it on the basket, Nathoo sprang a small cloth over top of it, then after chanting a hymn, he removed the basket with his left hand, with the cloth still over it, and while calling attention to the fact that the rakamas is still there, he deftly picks up the bag containing the rabbits with the right hand, holds the basket, bringing them around in front of him, quickly removes the rabbits from the bag, places them under the basket, throws aside the cloth in which the bag is concealed, lifts the basket and astonishes his spectators with the sight of the rabbits.

The bubble bubble or Hindoo boat mystery, came next. This is not a trick, exactly, but a very good illustration of the natural action of air and water, which greatly puzzled Mr. Hood for a long time. An ordinary coconut shell is hollowed out from a small aperture at the eye, having a hole about one-sixteenth of an inch in diameter and about 3 inches from the aperture. A chair rung about 9 inches in circumference and 8 inches long is placed over the hole, and a small hole bored through the side near the bottom (figure 5). A small seat is at one end in which is drilled a hole large enough to allow the chair rung to pass through.

The coconut is first filled with water, and a finger is kept over the hole in the side. Then one end of the chair rung is inserted in the coconut, and the other end is inserted tightly in the seat bar aperture, and the boat is filled with water. At intervals of few seconds the action of the water and air will throw a stream from the small hole in the side of the coconut into the boat.

It appears to flow out top at the will of the juggler, for he regulates his commands according to the time necessary.

The "dancing duck" trick which followed has often defied detection. Figure 1 in cut shows a half coconut supported by three stones. Nathoo filled this with water and soon a small duck (figure 2) appeared. The duck was a small, round, hard-boiled and danced to the beating of a small tom-tom.

A horse hair fastened with wax to the duck's back, and passing down through a pinhole in the bottom of the coconut (figure 3) was the simple means by which Nathoo made the duck dance. It held it with the hand that beat the tom-tom.

After this came the famous mango trick, of which every one has heard, looked very strange and mysterious, but the explanation makes one feel like kicking himself for not having discovered it himself.

After a moment's incantation, he lifted the basket to one side, raised the cloth, and showed in the earth a small, green, round, which he had quickly put there by his clever palming.

The pot was again covered with the cloth, and Nathoo grasped, some more of his little god, played on his hornpipe, beat his tom-tom, grasped a small bag, in which the mango bush was concealed, brought it around in front of him, and beat the bag, struck the bush into the earth, took away the cloth cover, and there was the miracle right before us.

It was exceedingly simple when Mr. Hood later took the trick very slowly.

Nathoo's last "miracle" was the great basket mystery, which he successfully performed with Mr. Hood's assistance. This is said to be performed by the aid of the mahatmas, and in India is considered nothing short of supernatural.

The trick consists in putting a man into a net, in which he is tightly tied, and then laid across the top of a basket, about 3 feet long, 18 inches wide and 3 feet deep.

A sheet is then placed over all, and within ten seconds the net is thrown out from underneath the sheet, in which is inclosed the turban of the juggler, who has apparently disappeared from the basket.

A moment later the cover of the basket is removed by the conjurer who is performing the trick, and who, after arranging the sheet loosely over the basket, stamps on it and sits down on it. After this he gets up, places the lid on the basket, binds it tightly with ropes, and then with a sharp stick or sword, pierces the basket violently on all sides, through a small hole in the center of the pot. This always confuses the spectators, that the basket is empty, and greatly puzzles them, for the previous incantation has entailed all that no trap door or secret passage is used.

When the man is placed in the net he immediately leaves the cord which runs from top to bottom, and when it is loose it allows him to get out through the side, leaving his head in the net. He then ties the net together again with the cord, and the net is again examined after it is thrown out, leaving no trace of his escape from the net.

One while the cord is being removed, the juggler in the basket curls himself around the edge, with his feet folded under him, and his body (figure 7), which allows ample room for the assistant to stand and sit in the basket.

During the sheet is being removed, the juggler in the basket curls himself around the edge, with his feet folded under him, and his body (figure 7), which allows ample room for the assistant to stand and sit in the basket.

After this order of dodging swords or sticks, and after the mysterious incantations by the chief juggler, the basket seems to take life and rolls about, and after the cover is removed the occupant is pulled out.

Well, Mr. Editor with the arrival of spring

Shortly after his marriage to Miss Mary McGuire, of the same place, he sailed from Ireland on April 1st, 1852, for Canada, and on his arrival in this country settled at Camden East, where he spent a few years on a farm. ## A PARTING TRIBUTE.

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION TO F. J. ROGERS. The business men and other prominent citizens of Deseronto were present in large numbers at the rooms of the Deseronto Club on the evening of Friday, 3rd inst., for the purpose of tendering to F. J. Rogers, the late manager of the Deseronto agency of the Bank of Montreal, a suitable expression of their appreciation of his services to Peterborough, where he assumes the position of Manager of the local agency of the same bank. Mayor Rathbun was called to the chair, and opened the pleasant duties of the evening by reading the following address:—

F. J. Rogers, Esq., Manager of the Deseronto Agency of the Bank of Montreal. Sir—We, business men and citizens of Deseronto, cannot allow you to depart to your new sphere of duty without assuring you of the regret we feel at your removal from our town, and though we recognize that that removal your promotion to a more important and responsible position in the financial institution with which you have been for so many years connected.

It was a great satisfaction to all classes of this community when the Bank of Montreal, one of the greatest financial corporations in the world, and which has an agency in Deseronto. That the governors of the bank should have selected you as the first manager of the new agency was in itself a proof of their confidence in your administrative abilities. We cannot but testify to the sound judgment and business tact you have manifested in your efforts to place the agency on a proper basis, a task which, no doubt, entailed a great deal of hard work and serious responsibility.

We would most heartily express our sincere appreciation of the courtesy and kindly consideration you invariably extended to all in their transactions with the bank, and we will always remember your readiness, by advice, suggestion or active cooperation, to promote the material welfare of the town of Deseronto. It affords us the greatest pleasure to ask you to accept this service as a very slight token of this appreciation.

We would also take this opportunity to express the general regret felt at the departure of Mrs. Rogers and the other members of your family. Mrs. Rogers, by her active and generous efforts in church work and other benevolent undertakings, has constantly manifested a desire to promote the best interests of the community. We assure you that we will always retain the most pleasant recollections of your stay in Deseronto, and we desire to wish you and your family all success in your new field of duty.

Deseronto, Ont., April 3rd, 1896. The address was signed by a long list of names, and the presentation consisted of an elegant silver coffee service, a set of tobacco pipes, and a gold tooth pick. These handsome gifts were handed to Mr. Rogers by Rev. J. H. Coleman, of the Deseronto High School, and Mr. J. H. Coleman, of the Deseronto High School, who presented them to Mr. Rogers in a brief but happy speech, in which he expressed his surprise at seeing so many present, and his inability to reply in adequate terms to the kind words of the address. When he received his appointment to Deseronto he was told it was not a large place, but that it was the seat of very extensive business interests. He had endeavored to do his duty as well as he could, and had found nothing but courtesy in his relations with the business public. He thanked them for the kind references to Mrs. Rogers, and only wished she was present to thank them personally. He left Deseronto with a great deal of regret. Very much was to be learned in Deseronto by a careful observer. He heartily appreciated all the kindness extended to him during his stay. He thanked them for the complimentary allusions of the address and for the rich and handsome tokens of their regard.

Brilliant addresses were also delivered by Dr. Newton, W. J. Malley, Reeve Dalton, T. H. Nasmith, C. A. Miller and others. E. T. Miller gave a song, and a very pleasant time was passed by the whole company.

In response to a suggestion by Mayor Rathbun, the retiring manager gave several valuable suggestions in reference to matters of business important to the town, and a profitable discussion followed.

The whole affair was of a most enjoyable character. It was a spontaneous tribute to the business ability of F. J. Rogers, who, as first manager of the agency of the Bank of Montreal here, performed his responsible duties with marked ability, and followed to his present duty with the best wishes of all classes in Deseronto.

IMPORTANT BUSINESS ANNOUNCEMENT.

It has been repeatedly charged that farmers who attend Deseronto market and sell large quantities of produce for cash, do not buy their supplies in town and that in consequence they should be deprived of many advantages which are now awarded to the town merchants.

During last week the Big Store has endeavored to dissipate this erroneous idea, by having the farmers institute a comparison of their goods and prices with the same line sold by dealers in other towns.

The results of these investigations have in nearly every instance been in favor of the Big Store. This establishment is now carrying a large and continually increasing trade with the farming community, which they highly appreciate and hope to still further advance by the introduction of such factors as the intelligent yeoman in this vicinity are convinced of the fact that goods are sold at so low a price in Deseronto as they can be bought for in any other town, a season of justice will prompt them to reciprocate by leaving a portion of their money in the town where they get it.

It will be glad to show farmers or any member of their families any lines they desire to purchase and to quote prices, being and assuring that it will lead to a transaction of business which will be mutually advantageous and in the meantime they will oppose the enforcement of any retaliatory measures.

Farmers cannot take their beef, pork, &c., to a better market or purchase their supplies to better advantage than in Deseronto, being that the town and that there is no other should exist a cordial unity of interest. The future of this movement will be watched with a lively interest. We have many expressions of satisfaction regarding the quality of Easter beef furnished by the Big Store last week, and it is just justice to the farmers, that we inform the people of Deseronto, who were fortunate enough to partake of a portion of this meat, which contributed so much to the enjoyment of Easter that it was fated by a farmer in the vicinity of the town and that there is no other good are by our farmer friends, being prepared for the Big Store's Spring trade.

In the evening he took as his text, 1st Peter 1:3, "Blessed be the God Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which according to his abundant mercy hath begotten us again unto a lively hope by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead." ### THE STORY OF A BOOM.

"John Milliken, Nova Scotian, Arch Quarrier and several others whom I know," said the mischievous man, "have all the land you might want in Florida, and they will sell it for fifty cents an acre. I'm going to tell you the story of this land; they never would tell you—and for good reason. I don't want to tell you."

"It was about five or six years ago that I met John Milliken on the street. He had a piece of yellow paper, which turned out to be a plot of land, and he was flaunting it about, greatly excited."

"Going to make a fortune! John me? Then he went on wildly. In the course of his story he told me that he had just received a telegram from a friend in Florida informing him of the discovery of phosphates in great quantities. He couldn't talk fast enough, and telegraphed his words. There were millions in it, he said. All I have to do will be to buy a few acres of land, just my first venture, and I'll be rich."

Farm Notes.

Dr. C. Hart Merriam, chief of the division of ornithology of the agricultural department, has examined the contents of the stomachs of hawks, owls, crows, blackbirds, and other birds which are commonly accounted to be the greatest enemies of farmers and farmers. His report shows that 75 per cent. of the food of these birds was found to be field mice, grasshoppers, crickets, etc., which are infinitely more injurious to farm crops than they. The charge against crows is that they eat corn and destroy eggs, poultry and wild birds. The examination of Dr. Merriam showed that the crow is corn, it is mostly waste corn, picked up in winter and fall, and that the shells of eggs are eaten to a limited extent for the lime. Crows eat noxious insects and destructive animals, ants, beetles, caterpillars, crabs, flies, grubs, etc., which do a great damage to crops. The crow is also found to be a very useful bird.

Wherever possible the old sod should be plowed in the fall so that part of the decomposition of its roots shall take place when little growth is possible in the middle of winter when heavy snow is turned under, the frost has much better chance to work the soil than when it is plowed in the fall. The sod has been fall plowed it gives a much better chance to fertilize the seed bed, during the months in winter when the ground is covered with snow, so as not to cut up the plowed surface. The plowing should be done as late as possible, so as to prevent the loss of moisture, new growth before the frost makes them dormant. In freezing and thawing much of these roots will be broken up and killed. In this way, by fall plowing a piece of quackgrass, it is possible to get a good head crop in the following year. The furrow should be left, turned, harrowed in fall smooths the surface too much, and prevents the frost from having as thorough action on the soil. It is also much better to harrow over a rough surface in spring, making a deeper seed bed than is possible where the soil has been made smooth in the fall and is compacted by rains during the winter.

If you are losing sight of the future, climb up to the book of Revelation and get a glimpse of the promised land.

BEFORE TAKING.

AFTER TAKING.

A Lucky Invalid.
The New York doctors charge a great deal more than do the Texas doctors. Col. McBride, Sumpter of Austin, who was quite ill during his recent visit to New York is our authority for the association.

He was in bed three or four days at his hotel and when the bill was presented he took a piece of paper and a pencil and figured out how much more he had to pay in New York than he would have had to pay in Texas for the same amount of indisposition. Having got through his calculation he folded his hands resignedly and said:
"I am lucky in being sick here in New York instead of being laid up in Texas."

"Ah!" said the doctor.
"Yes," responded Sumpter, "for all this money I'll have to pay you, I'd have had to be sick in Texas for more than two months."—Texas Sittings.

Wanted a Bonnet to Match.
Friend—It is costing you more to make over that old dress than it would cost to buy a new one.

Mrs. Managem (a smart woman)—I am not trying to save money. I am trying to make it.
"What?"
"You are not married yet, you know. When my husband sees me in this dress, he'll think it's a new one, and he'll have a regular fit about woman's extravagance, and declare that I'm driving him to wreck and ruin and ought to be ashamed of myself."

"I shouldn't wonder."
"Yes. Then I will tell him that this is an old dress made over, and all these trimmings and furbelows are to cover up stains and tears and threadbare places in the miserable old rag."
"Oh, that's it!"
"Yes. And then he'll feel so mean and cheap and disgusting that he'll give me $50 for a new bonnet."—New York Weekly.

Tale of a Comet.
The crew of a man of war once saw a comet and were somewhat surprised and alarmed at its appearance. The hands met and appointed a committee to wait on the commander to ask his opinion of it. They approached him and said:

"We want to ask your opinion, your honor."
"Well, my boys, what is it about?"
"We want to inquire about that thing up there."
"Now, before I answer you, first let me know what you think it is."

"Well, your honor, we have talked it over, and we think it is a star spring a leak."—Ran's Horn.

Not Possible.
Fat Man (who is in something of a hurry)—I'll give you $5 to get me to the station in three minutes.

Calamity (with provoking slowness)—Well, sorry, you might corrupt me, but you can't bribe that horse.—Exchange.

THE SECRET TOLD.

Why South American Nerve

Never Fails To Cure.

Nervous Prostration and Dyspepsia Lose their Terrors Under Its Influence.

IT MUST CURE.

Cannot Do Anything Else

The secret of the wonderfully successful result that follow the use of South American Nerve is to be found in the fact that it is a medicine that acts directly and distinctly on the nerve centres of the system. Other medicines, because of some stimulating element they possess, will sometimes give temporary relief, but South American Nerve not alone acts even more speedily on the system than perhaps any other medicine, but it acts lastingly. Science has proven, beyond all doubt, that the life fluid finds its origin in these nerve centres. Ligation, therefore, of these centres, is only a death sentence. When the medicine used gives but a passing cause for satisfaction. This is never the case with South American Nerve. It can be counted on every time to perform an effective cure.

The Dowling Bros. have purchased the farm near Deseronto formerly owned by Michael Brown.

VITAL TO PERFECT HEALTH.

IF IN DOUBT, USE SOUTH AMERICAN KIDNEY CURE.

The average man or woman cannot rid himself of that slight pain in the back, that may be thought only a passing ailment. More than likely it is the warning note that kidney trouble has taken hold of the system. It is wise among the extent to which kidney disease is common in Canada. The wise man will take time by the forelock, and in using South American Kidney Cure drive the disease from the system in its incipient stages. Fortunately, it is too late to do this, this remedy is strong enough to battle with the worst case of kidney disease. It is a life saving remedy of doing only one thing, but doing it well. South American Kidney Cure is a kidney cure. It does not make any other claim, but no other remedy can meet it on its own ground.

William McKinnis, K. J., of the G. I. R. Thessalon, Ont., writes: "I was completely laid up with the rheumatism and called in my family physician who attended me for some eight or ten days. At last I secured a bottle of South American Kidney Cure, and obtained relief in a few days. It was a most wonderful remedy work. It is the quickest acting remedy in the market, as one does convince of its great worth. Sold by W. G. Egan."

DO YOU GET WHAT YOU ASK FOR?

Many Are Deceived When Buying Diamond Dyes.

Many ladies are deceived when they go to purchase Diamond Dyes. They ask for the Diamond Dyes, and many dealers, greedy for gain and extra profit, wrap up some worthless make of dye that proves ruinous to the material, and asks to be paid.

A STRANGE FIGURE.

The distance which birds travel is marvelous, the ornithologists say, and laymen are inclined to believe them. Mr. Herbert Pavy's writing to the London Field that every spring great numbers of golden and shag birds arrive in the Hawaiian Islands, and leave the first week of May. The nearest point of the American coast to which they go is in South California and the Alaska peninsula respectively about 2,000 geographical miles, and there is no intervening land. It is said that the birds drop into the water to rest occasionally, as ducks do, during such long flights, but it is not probable. This is the longest regular flight known of shore birds over water, but it is known pretty certainly that some sea birds fly as a regular thing much farther than this during their migrations. The brant geese, for instance, are said to nest in Siberia and fly north over the Arctic Ocean and south again to Cape Hatteras, or thereabout, and beyond, every year.

MOST UNWISE.

In the continual effort to employ cod liver oil in its pure state when the stomach practices against it. Almost equally vain are the attempts to make cod liver oil palatable by adding to it various substances of value beyond their power to subside the oil. But where the oil is really needed, the elegant cod liver oil prepared by Mallin with Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites may be most satisfactorily used. This preparation contains all the medicinal properties of the oil combined with the hypophosphites and with maltine, an acknowledged digestant and reconstructive. It increases the appetite and adds to the digestive power, and aids the assimilative process, thus greatly augmenting nutrition and replacing the waste inevitable in pulmonary complaints and debility. A trial of two weeks will convince the most skeptical of its superiority.

MISERABLE FRAUDS.

Some Dealers Substitute Cheap and Worthless Dyes

When the Popular Diamond Dyes Are Asked For.

The great popularity of Diamond Dye has resulted in many worthless imitations—adulterated and cheap materials—that are bought by some merchants at a very low price and for the purpose of earning large profits, these dealers urge their customers to buy these weak and worthless substitutes.

The substitution of cheap dyes for the wonderful wonder Diamond Dye is one of the greatest frauds now being worked on the ladies of Canada. Beware of the dealer who tries to induce you to take the common dyes that give him large profits.

Diamond Dyes are from two to three times as strong as any of the imitation dyes. The best materials that science can produce are used in the manufacture of Diamond Dyes, and you get your money's worth when you buy them.

A LANTERN THE CLUE.

Two months ago burglars entered the house of a retired gentleman at Maxwell Hill, near London, Ont., killed him and robbed the safe. The only clue left was an ordinary six penny bull's-eye lantern. The progress was made by the police, and the solution of the mystery. Then it was learned by the ticket-of-leave system that two notorious burglars, living at Kewall, Galt, had disappeared after showing signs of an increase in fortune. A detective made casual inquiries among the members of the burglars' household about the lantern. A boy of 16, brother of one of the burglars, had a six-penny bull's-eye lantern, and he had substituted a brass ferule from a penholder. He had used it of flannellette, such as his mother had been making night-gowns of, instead of wick. These were precisely the peculiarities of the lantern left by the Maxwell Hill burglar in the house of the victim. They began a search for the man. They were traced to a dozen towns in the county, and it was discovered that they were committing another series of burglaries. The police overtook them at Bath, they made a desperate fight but were captured, and one being captured as a result of his resistance. The six-penny lantern is almost sure to send both to the gallows.

Al. G. Field, the minister manager and delineator of the negro character, has organized a new performance, entirely new under the title of "Dark America." They will tour the United States and Canada, after which they will go to Australia, thence to England and back to America. The program will consist of plantation dances, dances of Dixie, songs of the South, folk songs, and a variety of other things. A negro brass band and orchestra, a negro choir of singers, camp meeting shouters, pickaninnies, and all the better features of negro minstrelsy.

A CAMDEN EAST SENSATION.

The little village of Camden East has been the scene of a tragic sensation this week. David Patterson, a young man of twenty-two years, whose parents are both dead, resides with his uncle, William Saul in the village. He is a quiet, unassuming, and well-to-do man, but his health makes him at times absent minded. About noon on Wednesday he came into the house and asked a lady cousin for his keys. He took it, and his watch which he had just regulated. He then went out and was last seen sitting on a bench at the back door about 2:30 yards from the river. He has been in the habit of watching the rise and fall of the water in the river. On the evening before he had been in the river, and he was wet. It was supposed he had jumped down to start a large stick that had jammed and in losing it, had fallen in. His tracks were plainly visible in the mud on the river bank. It was at once agreed by all that, not being strong, he had been carried away by the rushing water. As he was a quiet, unassuming, and well-to-do man, it was a great relief to the community. The river was dragged in all directions, but all to no avail and there was nothing but expressions of regret on all sides. As one reporter was leaving the village yesterday morning the young man was found fast asleep in a hammock to the relief of the whole community.

"CANADA'S GLORY."

We would call our readers' attention to the splendid new engraving, entitled "Canada's Glory," just issued from the office of the Farmer's Advocate, London, Ont., and Winnipeg, Man. The artist and the engraver have so much of themselves in this great production. It represents eleven of the very finest light horses in the Dominion, each standing out so boldly from the background that they seem to spring with life and motion. The surrounding are most picturesque, making a charming landscape, with unusually good perspective. In the foreground is a clear limpid brook, in which two of the noble animals have just quenched their thirst; a third is coming up to follow their example. In the background is a soft, hazy landscape, and two others are resting under the shade of a mighty elm. No one can fail to be delighted with this magnificent picture, the size of which is 24 in. by 16 in. of horse flesh, and especially those whose breeding establishments are represented, it will prove a most valuable possession, not only as a picture, but as a record of the popular taste for good horses. Certainly the utmost credit is due the artist and engraver, who have so much of themselves in this great production. OUR MANITOULIN LETTER and other American cities, also from Windsor and points as far east as Toronto. One of the hotels has ample accommodation for from fifty to seventy-five guests. The principal attraction here is the splendid beach and splendid view of the lake.

Manitowaning has become quite a summer resort, many visitors coming from Detroit.

and speckled trout fishing which is found in the small lakes and rivers near the village. The Indian village of Wekwenikong is also an attraction. This is the largest reserve on the Island, the population being about 1,200. Here they have an industrial school where about sixty Indian and half breed children are taught. Some of the children come from other reserves on the Island and the north shore of Lake Huron. There is also a convent school where girls are taught the attendance being about fifty. The sisters have charge of the girls' school and the boys are taught by a society of brothers, the whole being under charge of the Roman Catholic church. The children make very little progress in learning the English language as very few of the teachers speak English themselves. Some of the brother are engaged in teaching different trades such as shoemaking, blacksmithing, carpentering, and boat building. A few of them are also trying to teach the Indians how to farm, but so far they have made very little progress.

in farming. This reserve has about 22,000 acres and the government intend having it surveyed this year and laid out in farm lots thus giving each Indian a farm, hoping that by this means they can induce the Indian to take more interest in farming. As it is now most of the Indians spend their summer in fishing and picking blue berries

Some of the young men go to the north shore and find employment in the different saw mills, while the squaws fill in their time and make considerable money in making table mats from birch bark and Indian ing table mats from reed bark and reed hay, also floor mats, canoes and baskets and many other fancy articles, ornamented with porcupine quills, which they find a ready sale for in the villages and to tourists during the excursion season. In winter a great many of the Indians move their families into the Cedar bush where they are employed in manufacturing ties and taking out saw logs.

The saw logs are taken to Weckweniskou where the Brothers have a saw mill and cut the lumber on shares for the Indians. In this way the Indians gets what lumber the require for his own use, the church getting the other half. The ties they deliver on the lake shore to be shipped from there by boat. It is amusing to one who is unaccustomed to this way to see them handle tomed to their ways to see them around their ties to the beach with their rude sleigh or junipers. Some have ponies others single ox, while occasionally one can be seen hauling two or three ties at a time with to handle their money. Some of them have the old fashioned wigwam, others build comfortable camps and take their whole families and stock with them. A rough shelter sometimes made of brush and covered over with their fishing boat sail for their ponies. This has been a very severe winter with the Indians on account of the scarcity of hay. Many of their ponies have not been stable.

many of their ponies have not been shod this winter but have had to brou for the living and they are in very poor condition and many of them have died for want of food.

A good many foxes, lynx and rabbits have been trapped this winter. They have also killed quite a number of black bear. The furs are sold to the store keepers in the village. Now that the roads in the swamp are broken up a great many of the Indians and their families have moved their camps on the higher ground and are engaged making sugar. Their sap buckets are made from birch bark and answer the purpose for gathering the sap very well. They do not bore the trees, simply cut a notch with the axe, which is gradually destroying the tree. Those not employed in making sugar are getting their nets and boats ready for the fishing season others are hanging around the

Now that the snow is gone and the ice unsafe for crossing it is with great difficulty that the mails are got over to the island from the north shore. The mail carrier is no

DEATH OF R. T. HENDERSON.

R. T. Henderson, Esq., of South Fredericksburgh, died on Monday, April 13th, at the residence of his sister, Mrs. J. B. Diamond, of Parua, with whom he has resided for the past two years, in his 76th year, from an attack of la grippe. His health had been somewhat shattered, and he succumbed after a few days' illness. The funeral took place at the house on Monday. Rev. E. T. Shorey preached a very impressive and appropriate sermon. Deceased leaves a family of seven children—six daughters and one son—who are all married and settled in different parts of the United States and Canada—three in Paterdam, N.Y.; one in Minneapolis; Mrs. Willing, Toronto; Mrs. Dr. Easton, Brockville. The latter, accompanied by the doctor, attended the funeral. Deceased also left a son who lives at Sulbury, Ontario. His wife, a Miss Smith, of Smith's Falls, died some 25 years ago. He also has two sisters living, Mrs. E. A. Diamond, Providence, R.I., and Mrs. J. B. Diamond, Parua. Mr. Henderson was an attorney-at-law, and a resident of Kingston for a number of years, and at one time held the office of Post School Superintendent. He was a staunch Conservative and a personal friend of the late Sir John A. Macdonald. He held himself aloof from secret societies, and was a member of the Church of England for many years.

A Luminous Forelight.

A luminous forelight has been used successfully for some time to enable the gunner to direct his piece at any desired point in the darkness, or imperfect light. A small incandescent lamp, supplied with a current from a simple form of battery, is mounted within a shield at the muzzle of the gun, and a faint ray of light enables the marksman to obtain the required alignment with the back sight and with the target. It is now proposed to apply this device not only to the illumination of machine guns used against torpedo attacks during the night, but for the assistance of marksmen using rifles or fowling pieces for night shooting. In the latter case, the battery is concealed in the stock, and there is just enough light thrown by the lamp to enable the gunner to see the direction in which the muzzle is pointed, without dazzling his sight, or alarming the game.—Boston Globe.

Very Considerate.

What true friendship consists in depends on the temperament of a man who has a friend. It is related that at the funeral of Mr. X., who died extremely poor, the usually ebullient Tom Tight-fist was much affected.

"You thought a great deal of him, I suppose," some one asked him. "Thought a great deal of him? I should think I did. There was a true friend! He never asked me to lend him a penny, though I knew well enough he was starving to death!"

We have to be living very near to the cross before we can enjoy having our faults pointed out.

Because other alleged remedies for rashes and skin diseases generally have proved useless, do not condemn Dr. Chase's Ointment. It has never been known to fail. For instance, Norman Simmons, Newburgh, Ont., writes:

"I used Dr. Chase's Ointment for itching piles, and it cured me completely.
I highly recommend it to all who have the same for three years. He tried perfect freedom from the disease."

One box of Dr. Chase's Ointment cures three boxes of Dr. Chase's Pills cured

Internally used Burdock Bitters cleanses, purifies and tones every organ of the body. It cures all cases where sores, ulcers, bleaches, scrofula, etc., appear on the surface as an outward application exercises wonderful curative power over the skin and helps healing of the same without even leaving a scar. Here is a case in point.

After having used Burdock Bitters for scrofula in the blood I feel in my duty to state to the world that I was cured and treated by a skilled physician but he failed to cure me. I had three running sores on my neck

B., which cleared them completely, leaving

MALTING WITH CO. LIVER OIL AND HYPOPHOSPHITES FOR CONSTIPATION,
COLDS, AND BRONCHITIS.

No objections can be urged against the generally acknowledged remedial properties of pure cod liver oil beyond its tendency to loosen the stomach and impair the appetite, and fortunately even this drawback is overcome in the preparation Malting with Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites. The oil is rendered palatable by the addition of cod liver, and the hypophosphites are of great service in pulmonary affections and in wasting diseases generally. Malting, too, is unique, not only for its nutritive value, but by reason of its emphatic action upon the bowels, which renders it a valuable remedy for constipation. A trial will convince all of its efficacy.

FIRST GREAT REQUISITE.

Pure Blood and Strong Nerves.

Paine's Celery Compound Gives These Blessings to Every Sufferer.

The Only Medicine That Thoroughly Banishes Disease.

An Ontario Lady's Experience

The first great requisite for a condition of perfect health for man or woman is pure blood and strong nerves. They give us the strength, vim and activity that we are so sagacious to possess, so that we may be able to meet the ever-varying weather of our hot summer.

The fourth of our people rush into the portals of summer with systems charged with deadly impurities and poisons. The blood is foul and stagnant; the liver and kidneys work badly, and very often diseased. With many, rheumatism, dyspepsia and indigestion are daily torments. Constipation, headache, bad head and heavy brain, weak and tired feelings and sleeplessness, make life a misery for thousands.

Life is not safe when such symptoms and diseases are permitted to run unchecked. If you, reader, happen to be one of the many suffering from any of the forms of disease just referred to, do not fail to give Paine's Celery Compound a trial at once. It is your only safety—your only true and certain deliverance from peril that end in death.

Paine's Celery Compound is an absolute and certain specific for the troubles that threaten your life; it has cured thousands and will do the same for you. It is a bottle will cost you less than a visit to a physician and will convince you of the value of the cure.

Mrs. C. Ferguson, of Reddickville, Ont., says:

"For eight years I was sorely troubled with neuralgia, nervous debility and indigestion, which I tried various advertised medicines and was treated by five doctors.
I did not receive any good results from my source of relief. I was recommended to use Paine's Celery Compound. Before I had used one bottle of the Compound I found myself much better. After using four bottles
I am now almost perfectly cured. Before I used one bottle of the Compound I found myself much better. After using four bottles
I am now almost perfectly cured. Before I
used one bottle of the Compound I found myself much better. After using four bottles waterworks.

Vincent, has moved to St. Andrew's church,
Toronto, for the summer months.

IVORINE FOR THE TEETH

Asks only a trial. Boasting will not show teeth; Ivory for the teeth does.
Extravagant claims are made for this breath sweet and fragrant; Ivory never fails to do this. Ivory for the teeth asks for an opportunity to demonstrate its value. Dentists have affirmed it and the public corroborate profession opinion, but you know, as every tooth loving man or woman ought to know, Ivory for the teeth is the best?

Colton Bonter, aged 50, of Ameliasburg, was killed by the fall of a large tree, and is promptly cured by Burdock Bitters. Easy to

NOTHING IS MORE PITIFUL

Than the condition of the consumptive, when the life is slowly passing away. Science has come to the rescue, and all afflicted that way may be restored if they will but use Dr. Williams' Emulsion of Norrway Cod Liver Oil. It is as sweet as candy, so that the most fastidious can take it. After a few doses new blood comes to the rescue, and in a short time the patient is about again, hungry and hopeful, with a new lease of life. It will almost raise the dead. Dr. Williams' Emulsion is the great strengthening and blood making, and cures Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Scrofula and all lung affections. In Big Bottles, 50c, and Small Bottles, 25c. Sold by W. G. Egar.

is a combination of all that is best in healing medicines.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian church at Burrhead, Seymour, Ont., six miles from Campbellford, was struck by lightning and completely destroyed on the 17th inst.

been recently repaired at a cost of $2,500.

Norway Pine Syrup cures Coughs, Colds and all Throat and Lung Troubles. Price 25c and 50c.

The Almonte Gazette laments the fact that the new Almonte station for the town though very good, is not doing anything in the other towns and cities. Distances are built on the same style everywhere.

QUICK RELIEF and rare cure often the use of Norway Pine Syrup in all cases of the Throat and Lung, Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, and all ailments of the throat.

Campbellford board of trade offers a free site and exemption from taxes for many years to W. Delany, of Cobourg, if he will go to that village and start a factory, and from pneumonia.

HIS MODEL POULTRY FARM.

And the Insurmountable Obstacle Which Made It a Disastal Farm.

Talking of poultry, "here's another story," said Mr. Kilgiving, who would say, which was told to me by a gentleman who had settled down to spend his old age in the neighborhood of Interlaken. Monsieur, like many another of us, had spent an idle moment now and then in speculating upon the number of poultry which he could raise and sell in the neighborhood. He was laughing in the Swiss principally.
Suddenly a happy thought occurred.
Why should he not have a share in the profits? Why should he not start a poultry farm of his own? No sooner thought than done. He determined that he would have no expense; he would have the best breed of chickens that could be procured, and then give a large demand on the one hand and an ample supply on the other, he would be sure of a large and profitable business. So he argued in his own mind, and having spent $1, 500 and many months of careful supervision he found himself the possessor of a colony of feathered nurslings as one need wish to see.

Matters having reached this satisfactory stage, he required to one of the mammoth hotels whose windows look out on the glittering heights of the Jungfrau and held an interview with the proprietors. They were acquainted with many years' standing; his reputation was, therefore, all that was gracious, and he was responded to in a sample of a dozen poultry forthwith. The poultry were patched, and a day or two later Monsieur attended to hear the verdict. He tried poor fellow to smile at the prospect of exultation as he mentally contrasted his own plump nurslings with the tough and lean specimens which are usually offered up for the delectation of the guests, and his disappointment was all the greater, therefore, when the landlord shrugged his shoulders and said, "I am sorry, but the poultry! A terrible failure! My appointment was that he was not a poultry farmer, but a day or two later Monsieur attended to hear the verdict. He tried
